LB Offers Federal Plan For Farmers Urges Congress To Render Help For Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson committed himself Friday to fighting for the nation's farmers but at less cost than this year's government spending in that field.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson stressed that farmers are caught in "a cruel cost-price squeeze" that is eating up rising gross farm income.

The deep-seated problems, he said, are caused by abundance, not scarcity and "they tax our ingenuity."

Most of his specific proposals already are embraced in bills now before Congress or being tested in pilot projects. His proposals for commodity programs are in line with those advanced last year by the late President John F. Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

But Johnson's views on specific farm problems and his firm support of a big federal role in agriculture are controversial. Many Republicans demanded that the government make a gradual withdrawal from government price support programs.

Johnson said his message is an effort to reconcile "the farm families for a income with the need of making this abundance available at reasonable domestic consumption."

The President laid heavy emphasis on a drive to help not only farmers but all 55 million rural Americans. Two million of these, he said, live in poverty and lack education, skills and earning power which their talents warrant.

Approximately 100 spokesmen for farmers from 63 parish units will meet in Monroe Monday and Tuesday to outline and review legislative and commodity activities.

The annual two-day conference of farm bureau presidents and secretaries will get underway at 8 a.m. Monday in the Frances Hotel, according to James D. Graugnard, Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation president.

A highlight of the ting will be the annual Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau barbeque Gun by Dining Hall, North State College, Monday at 5 p.m. Paul Ransom, vice president of the Farm Bureau Federation, said the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau queen will be crowned this function to which 100 farm leaders and local farm groups are invited. He said a total of around 700 is expected for the barbeque, which also features a talent competition and presentation of several awards.

Graugnard said the conference is a workshop type of meeting at which the farm leaders discuss issues of national and state importance with elected farm leaders. One of the topics on the agenda will be the forthcoming cotton legislation, with emphasis on the effecting farmers' direct representation of several farm groups.

He added that chairman of the major committee will speak Monday afternoon. These include the cotton, sugar cane, poultry and stock committees.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—South Vietnam's military strong man pledged Friday to form an anti-Communist national front government, sternly opposed to the French President Charles de Gaulle advocates for Southeast Asia.

FRENCH PRESIDENT DE GAULLE

... Ponders China Question IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

De Gaulle Wants Neutralized Area

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle said Friday that France, in establishing diplomatic relations with Red China, was "only recognizing the world as it is."

The towering French leader advocated neutralization of Southeast Asia and said relations with Red China are necessary to achieve such neutralization.

He praised President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, with which France is maintaining relations—as a man of patriotism and loftiness of soul, certain of honor from the Chinese people and from history.

He avoided questions about his disputed two-Chinas policy.

Of the agreement Monday between Peking and Paris to exchange ambassadors within three months, De Gaulle said "There is obviously nothing in this from our part which implies any sort of approval with regard to the regime which now dominates China."

He expressed belief, however, that diplomatic and other contracts between the French and the Communist Chinese will help diminish "the contrast and the dramatic oppositions of the camps which divided the universe."

"It could be thus that human souls, wherever they are found on earth," he said, "will meet each other a little earlier at the rendezvous that France gave the universe 175 years ago, that of liberty, equality and fraternity."

De Gaulle unleashed no political bombs at his semiannual news conference, which drew a crowd of about 1,000 reporters and government officials to the Elysee Palace.

On a similar occasion a year ago he shocked a lot of people by disclosing for the first time that he opposed Britain's entry into the European Common Market. He also summarily refused the late President John F. Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles.

De Gaulle declined to set at rest speculation about whether he will be a candidate for election.

Goldwater Challenges McNamara

Wants To Know Reliability Tests With Ban Treaty

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater has challenged Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to explain how the reliability of long-range missiles can be demonstrated without nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The Arizona Senator said McNamara himself has expressed uncertainty about whether U.S. missile sites could withstand an enemy attack.

AMERICANS DEPRIVED

Goldwater said the Soviets almost certainly are studying missile reliability and it is "incredible that anyone would suggest that we deprive the American people of an equally careful study and perfectly clear answers."

Goldwater insisted that intercontinental ballistic missiles "are not as reliable as our national security demands."

Goldwater pressed the missile question Friday as he took his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination into the Midwest for the first time.

In a speech prepared for a $100-a-plate Republican dinner, Goldwater said the Johnson administration is "dangerously putting all of our nuclear eggs into one basket. I charge that there are holes in that basket."

"This is not to say that the missiles we have are not good," Goldwater said. "I am convinced that they are the best of their type. That's not the question. The question is now reliable they are."

Goldwater said McNamara, "the very man who tried to dodge my charge by resorting to a personal attack, has himself admitted and stated that he has doubts about the reliability of our ICBM systems."

Goldwater said McNamara testified before congressional committees that "there is a certain uncertainty in our evaluation of the reaction of our sites to certain forms of attack."

Police Accuse Erhard Guard Of War Crimes

BONN, Germany (AP) — A member of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's bodyguard was arrested Friday on war crimes charges, a government spokesman said Friday night. Other sources said the bodyguard, Ewald Peters, was with Erhard on his late December visit to President Johnson's ranch in Texas.

Peters is suspected of having participated in mass slaughter of Jews in the southern Soviet Union in World War II, the government spokesman said. Details of the charges were not disclosed.

Outlook Good

West Monroe Water Supt. J. O. Fleming may wind up his hospitalization at Glenwood today.

The city official checked in Sunday for tests, but, according to Street Supt. W. R. Townson who visited him Friday, the outlook is good.

Ranger 6 On Path To Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Spacecraft Ranger 6, its television cameras hopefully returning pictures to the instant of impact, should crash Sunday morning into the moon's Sea of Tranquility.

Joyous scientists said Friday that if all goes well this latest of the trouble-plagued Ranger Lunar explorers would rank as one of the most successful and significant of space experiments.

Its fruits could be the first clear, close up photographs of the moon's pocked surface—in the very area where men perhaps will land a few years hence.

The fantastic-appearing Ranger 6, launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., is expected to smash into the center of the moon's bright side at 4:24 a.m. Sunday.

The impact, which could cause either a flash of light or a cloud of dust or both, may be visible to large telescopes but not to the naked eye.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, creators of the Ranger series and the people who are tracking and guiding No. 6, told a news conference it appears a perfect shot on evidence thus far—so good that a final course adjustment may not be necessary. A midcourse correction by remote control—a brief blast from a 50-pound thrust rocket engine—early Friday put it almost precisely on the beam. The vehicle otherwise would have skimmed 2,000 miles to the moon's left, then curved within 600 miles of its back side.

The correction of about 3,200 miles, should put the crash within a 150-mile-diameter circle on a flat plain known as Mare Tranquillitatis, or the Sea of Tranquility.

Fair Skies Due In Area Today

Twin City weather will generally be fair and mild through the weekend with plenty of sunshine forecast for today.

The temperature is expected to peak between 55 and 60 today with a low tonight of 32 to 36. Sunday's reading should be about the same.

The high temperature for Friday was an afternoon reading of 56 with the low recorded at 48. A trace of rainfall fell Friday but no precipitation is indicated over the weekend.

Winds will blow from the north today at 8 to 18 mph becoming variable tonight.

EACH ACCUSES OTHER

OAS Hears U.S., Panama Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Panama and the United States traded charges of aggression and government incitement to violence Friday at a special meeting of the Organization of American States (OAS) Council.

The 19-nation council adjourned until Tuesday without reaching any decision on Panama's charge of "unprovoked aggression" by the United States during the Canal Zone riots.

Panama, which had requested the special OAS meeting, charged that U.S. Canal Zone police fired on unarmed civilians in an act of "unprovoked aggression."

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said an OAS investigation of the disorders would show that mobs led by Communist-trained extremists had assaulted the Canal Zone, setting fire to buildings and attacking persons inside.

Bunker also charged that the government of Panama had incited Panamanians to the violence through a controlled press.

REJECTS CHARGE

The U.S. ambassador rejected the charge of aggression and said the United States "welcomed" an investigation by the OAS.

Bunker said U.S. civilian police and military forces who were called out as the Jan. 9-10 disorders grew had acted only to preserve law and order in the zone. U.S. casualties totaled more than 100 injured and four killed, he said. Panamanian casualties brought the death toll to 23.

He said an investigation would demonstrate that the United States had gone "more than half-way" toward trying to resolve the dispute with the inter-American peace committee.

The United States still is prepared to sit down with Panama to resolve all outstanding issues Bunker said.

DE LA BECKWITH TRIAL

Prosecution Strives For Link With Rifle

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The prosecution tried Friday to link Byron De La Beckwith to a high powered rifle found in bushes overlooking the home of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

After introducing the gun as evidence, Dist. Atty. William L. Waller called to the stand a young Mississippi Delta cotton farmer who said he had traded a 30-06 Enfield rifle to Beckwith four years ago.

Innis Thornton McIntyre said: "Without knowing the (serial) number, it would strictly be an opinion but in my opinion it is the same gun."

The serial number of the rifle in hand was available—1-052-682—but McIntyre said he didn't have the serial number of the rifle he bought from a mail order house and later traded to Beckwith.

Both Beckwith, a 43-year-old

Bid Receives Approval Of Top Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States proposed Friday a multinational force to keep peace on Cyprus. Initial reaction from the Cypriots was unfavorable, but high ranking officials voiced belief that the plan has better than a 50-50 chance of acceptance.

Under the proposal, 10,000 troops from North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries—including 1,000 to 2,000 U.S. Marines—would be sent to the troubled Mediterranean island for three months.

PEACE KEEPERS

They would keep the peace while efforts are made for a long-term political solution of differences between the Greek and Turkish populations there.

The U.S. authorities stressed that all the parties concerned would have to agree to the U.S. proposal for it to be carried forward.

But they indicated also the U.S. plan could be modified in discussions expected over the next two or three days.

Dispatches from London, where Turkish and Greek Cypriots are in conference with the British, said both island factions called the U.S. proposal unacceptable.

State Department sources declined, however, to accept this unofficial word as meaning a final rejection of the U.S. proposal. The London dispatches said the U.S. plan will be presented officially to the Cypriots only after it has been acted upon by the governments of Greece and Turkey.

The United States has about double its normal Marine strength on hand in the Mediterranean—two amphibious task forces totaling about 3,400 men. But whether Leathernecks will land at Cyprus in the next few days hinged on agreements still

Parish Voter Books Close; 478 Are Added

The Ouachita Parish voter registration books closed Friday after a three-week registration period and will not reopen under state law until after the March 3 general election.

Mrs. Mae Lucky, Parish registrar of voters, said that 478 new names were added to the rolls during the past three-week registration period. She added that many registered as Republicans, but said that late Friday the office did not have totals compiled on how many registered as Republicans and as Democrats.

The large registration during the past three weeks brings the total registered voters in Ouachita Parish to 30,355. The books were open from Jan. 13 through Friday at 5 p.m.

A total of 680 voters have been added to the rolls since November when the grand total was 29,675 voters. During the period when the books were open Dec. 9 through Dec. 11, 202 names were added bringing the total to 29,877. The 478 to register during January represents the largest increase in several months.

Under the state law voter registration books must be closed 30 days prior to an election, so the books will not re-open until after the March 3 general election.

Does the FBI check all mail going to the Communist Party's headquarters? What is the location of the nearest Communist Party office? Can anyone write to the Communist Party for information without the letter being read by the FBI?

Headquarters for the FBI in Washington says the agency does not open anyone's mail. Other means it uses to keep track of Communist Party activity are secret. Laws outlawing the Communist Party are pending final ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court on constitutionality. Until these laws take effect, Communists enjoy the same first-class mail privacy as other citizens. The FBI declined to comment on bases Communists may use in the South. From other Washington sources, it is believed they have no definite Southern headquarters so the nearest address of the Communist Party is: 23 West 26th St., New York, N.Y.

There is no censorship imposed on persons writing to the party headquarters. The only legal practice of opening mail is when the Postmaster General opens bulk lots of Communist propaganda materials sent to individuals in the U.S. from behind the Iron Curtain.

When washing drapes made with pleater's tape, should the hooks be removed? How should drapes be hung to dry so as to prevent stretched, pointed corners? Also, in washing, should starch and/or a fabric softener be used?

Hooks should be removed when washing drapes at home because if they are left in they will tear the drapes when the washer agitates. Professional establishments use rubber tips for the hooks during washing, and they don't have to be removed.

As for hanging the drapes without stretching the corners, this is going to be difficult at home. Professional cleaners have very expensive equipment that accomplishes this. It would be best to consult a professional and tell him what kind of fabric you have.

On the use of starch and fabric softeners — the answer would necessarily depend on the fabric. However, generally speaking, if you want crisp draperies, use a starch. If you want soft, free-hanging drapes, use a fabric softener.

In the establishment of land grant colleges, one requirement made by the government was that ROTC courses be mandatory. But since Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe is not a land grant, why do they require four semesters of ROTC?

A member of the military department at Northeast said that the school itself has the authority to require basic ROTC training of its students. This is the case here. The college requires that physically qualified male undergraduates who have not had military service take the basic four semesters of ROTC. After this is completed, if a student is qualified and accepted, he may voluntarily enter the advanced ROTC course which leads to a commission in the reserve forces.

What are free electors, how will my vote be cast if we have free electors and what benefit will the state of Louisiana receive from free electors?

This is a question that requires opinion for much of the answer. A definition of free electors would be required by the person advocating them. One plan (or theory) is to have three states of presidential electors on the general election ballot — Democratic, pledged to the national Democratic candidate; Republican, pledged to the national Republican nominee, and unpledged or free electors who could vote for anyone they wanted to without prior commitment. This would mean that the elected electors state — if free — could "bargain" with the major nominees for the best "deal" for Louisiana. Or they could vote for some person who was not a major party nominee. Another free elector proposal would be to substitute the unpledged state for the Democratic candidate on the ballot and deny the national convention's nominee a place on the ballot as the candidate of the Democratic party of Louisiana. Another idea is to hold pre-election primaries to decide which plan the people want or which state the people would like for the state to support.

As for the benefits, the only thing that is proposed as a benefit would be that the electors could bargain before casting their votes for president. Opponents say this would do no good and that neither candidate would bargain on such issues as civil rights. Others argue that to vote for a person other than the party nominee of the Democrats or Republicans would throw the election into the House of Representatives and assure the election of the Democratic nominee since the House is controlled by the Democratic party.

But there is no firm proposal at this time for free electors. The Democratic State Central Committee has postponed action for the present and the Legislature last year failed to pass a free elector bill.

Why does the traffic light at Cypress and Church Streets in West Monroe have to remain on after school hours?

West Monroe Chief of Police Johnny B. Mitchell said: "The reason the light remains on is so that traffic can get in and out of the big shopping center just west of there. The light goes off about the time that the shopping center closes. But it is necessary until that time so that cars will have a way to get in and out of there."

The chief added that the light is controlled by the state police since it is on a state highway.

To what does the phrase "the holy, catholic church" refer to in the Methodist Affirmation of Faith?

The word "catholic" in its root meaning, means universal. In this meaning, it is used to describe the church. You will notice it is not capitalized. That is not a mistake — it is because the word in this sense is an adjective. It in no way refers to the Catholic denomination.

Who wrote the words and music to the West Monroe High School alma mater?

Sandy Lawn.

Does the telephone company object to a subscriber leaving the receiver off the hook if it is on a private line?

The telephone company says they do have an objection. The local office said that when the receiver is lifted it makes a tie-in with certain equipment at the telephone office. This will, if widespread enough, tie up the equipment and deny its use to other subscribers.

How does the salary of Louisiana legislators compare with that of Mississippi legislators?

Louisiana legislators draw $250 per month for expenses during months when the Legislature is not in session. They get $50 per day when in session. Also, they are allowed one round trip per week from Baton Rouge to their home when the Legislature is in session. They get eight cents per mile for this. For interim committee work when the Legislature is not in session, they get $50 per day and $50 per day during special sessions.

In Mississippi, legislators get $3000 per regular session, $22.50 per day in special session, $100 per month expenses when not in session 15 days or more during the month and one round trip weekly in session at 7 cents per mile.

Do churches have to pay income tax on profits earned from rental property?

The local office of the Internal Revenue Service says that generally speaking churches don't have to pay taxes on rents received, provided the money is used for church purposes only. However, it would be best to take the specific case to the local office of the revenue department in the post office building in Monroe.

What is meant by the term "crime against nature"? This is a crime of sexual perversion.

In the stained glass windows of the First Methodist Church in Monroe is the phrase "Methodist-Episcopal Church South, 1850." When did the two churches separate and over what issues? The Methodist church split before the Civil War on the question of slavery. They were all unified again in 1939 with the exception of the Free Methodists.

When Edward Kennedy was elected to the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts did he run as a write-in candidate?

No. He first ran in the Democratic primary and defeated U.S. Rep. John McCormack's nephew. He then ran in the general election and defeated Henry Cabot Lodge's son.

How much is a student membership in the Monroe Little Theatre?

A student membership is $1. You then pay for each play separately.

Is the use of river water in Monroe expected to do any damage to plumbing?

No.

Is DeSiard Street, from Five Points or Manassas Street, to the intersection with Louisville supposed to be a two-lane or four-lane street?

According to the traffic division of the Monroe police department, DeSiard Street is a two-lane designated street from the old bridge to North 26th Street, and four-lane from there to the intersection. DeSiard Street from North Ninth to North 26th Street is under study at this time for improved traffic conditions, officers said.

Recently St. John Street was, by ordinance, made a one-way street with traffic flowing toward the south. Recently I was traveling west on Grammont Street and turned south into St. John Street and almost collided with a screaming fire truck. If this should have happened and there was either personal injury or property damage or both, would the city, the truck driver or I have been held liable?

Monroe police department officials report that equipment is now being made, subject to approval, to make St. John Street in the 200 block a "fire lane." Proper signal indications will stop all traffic so a fire department vehicle can make an emergency exit to the north to Grammont Street.

Please tell me why Pecan Street between South Fifth and South Seventh Streets cannot be made a two-way street?

The Monroe police department advises that Pecan Street is a school street, made one way as a safety precaution for school children and buses.

Why does the city of Monroe allow cars to park free on the sidewalks and charge for parking in the street at the curb? The specific spot I am talking about is in the fourth block of Grammont street. A motel is under construction here and pedestrians are instructed to use the other sidewalk, which is used by a business there as their own private parking lot.

Monroe police officials report that within the past week traffic summons for cars actually blocking the sidewalk in the area mentioned were issued, and the property owner has taken action to prevent such parking in the future, as the writer may have already noticed.

Can an American citizen living abroad vote in presidential elections? If so, with what state is his vote counted?

Servicemen and their wives may vote in any of the elections in Ouachita Parish, provided they are registered, qualified voters. They vote absentee and these votes are counted along with the other absentee votes.

The ballots are special for the servicemen, marked with a red line across the page. Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita Parish registrar, said she had no knowledge of persons other than servicemen and their wives or dependents abroad, voting absentee.

Can a lawyer educated under Louisiana's Napoleonic Code serve as U.S. Attorney General?

Yes. This would not be a hindrance. The attorney general is an appointed person — usually close to the President — and

LBJ T.V. STATION

Baker Probe Hears Advertiser Version

WASHINGTON (AP)—A kitchenware manufacturer said Friday he talked to a man he believed to be presidential aide Walter Jenkins about advertising his products on a Texas television station owned by President Johnson's family.

Albert G. Young, president of the Mid-Atlantic Stainless Steel Corp. testified at a closed hearing in the Robert G. Baker investigation and then talked with newsmen.

"A man who claimed to be Mr. Jenkins called me to confirm the arrangements Mr. Reynolds had made," Young said.

He referred to Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent who has testified that Jenkins persuaded him to buy $1,208 worth of advertising time on the television station after he sold Johnson $100,000 in life insurance.

Jenkins, in a sworn statement to the Senate Rules Committee, denied that he had "any knowledge of any arrangements by which Reynolds purchased advertising time on the television station."

Reynolds said he turned the advertising time over to his neighbor, Young, who he thought could make better use of it, and he told the Senate investigators that Young could back up his story.

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller demanded that the committee clear up what he called a "clear issue of possible perjury" involving conflict in the Reynolds and Jenkins versions.

Young was called and spent about 2 1/2 hours before the committee.

Talking with newsmen afterward, Young said he received a telephone call in March 1957, from a man identifying himself as Jenkins, a long-time Johnson aide. Young said he had no conversations with Johnson, who then was Democratic leader of the Senate.

The manufacturer said final arrangements for using the television time were not completed until the following October. He said "this was to be an audience participation program" and it was necessary to work out the details.

The Monroe fire department has a large number of rigid regulations regarding incinerators in the city, and all incinerators must be approved by fire department officials. Residents can obtain the specifications for incinerators or furnaces by contacting the Monroe fire department.

Why are parents allowed to park in the "No Parking" zone in front of the colored elementary school on Orange street? Aren't they allowed to use the road which goes through the school campus?

The Monroe police department reports that parking, although not legal, is tolerated at all schools in no parking zones, except for bus stops, for loading and unloading passengers and for special events. No private vehicles are allowed to travel upon a school campus.

Beckwith Hopes 'To Be Out Soon'

WINNSBORO (Special) — Bryon De La Beckwith, accused slayer of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers, said in a letter received here Friday, "I expect to be out soon" and "we will win with honor."

Beckwith's trial is underway at Jackson, Miss. The ex-Marine, who received a wound in Combat, is accused of setting up a sniper's ambush and shooting the Negro leader in the back with a high-powered rifle.

The letter received here from Beckwith was addressed to Chester B. Coker, Murry H. Martin and Henry Hanna Jr. The three delivered a $372.41 contribution to Beckwith in the County Jail at Jackson Jan. 22. The money was donated by Franklin Parish residents to the Beckwith Defense Fund, of which Coker is chairman.

"I don't know how you knew of it," Beckwith wrote, "but your gift of aid and friendship was the only thing that could have possibly helped me and my family at this time."

"For months I've been setting up a howl for some outside help and the most I have received has been from Holmes, County, Miss. Without it, we would surely all have ended up in a debtor's prison."

Switching to the trial, Beckwith said, "This thing got our financial goat long ago — it was supposed to be a six-week affair. This is the seventh month — and all this time I've had to keep my wife in a hotel and our son in a private military academy for their protection at our expense. And with no income, we have had to have outside help — but the public is a funny thing. I get many cheery cards from folks who are really as strong a segregationist as I am and they think that I am just fine in every category — which is nonsense.

"But we will win with honor — thus your great and generous gift is humbly and gratefully received and acknowledged. It will carry us through this particular time and I expect to be out soon, doing what I can to put a few of my financial goats back under lock and key."

Beckwith added this postscript: "Your personal help really helps us. Of course, the fund must grow. It's for lawyers only — it don't (sic) feed the victims."

The letter was typewritten, but the postscript was written in longhand.

The letter was written Jan. 28. Also enclosed in the envelope was a circular asking contributions for the White Citizens Legal Fund, Greenwood, Miss.

A note, signed by Beckwith, said, "Regardless of the outcome of my trial, this fund must grow. Thanks for your help."

A spokesman said that the Beckwith drive in Franklin Parish was not organized, but that the contributions were "spontaneous."

Beckwith, in addition to being an ex-Marine, is a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner, a Communicant of the Episcopal Church and a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Judge Quashes Molest Charges

ATLANTA (UPI) — A municipal judge Friday dismissed as totally unfounded charges that Negro trustees molested female civil rights workers jailed in a wave of protest demonstrations. Demonstrators said in earlier testimony they had to build a barricade of steel coats in the Atlanta jail to protect the women and girls from advances of the trustees. Several said they were fondled by the trustees. But after a hearing for three trustees, Judge T. C. Little said: "I dismiss the charges against these defendants as being totally unfounded. No one could identify anyone that placed their hands on them after swearing Thursday that they could."

Crossett Group Agrees To New Paving Plans

CROSSETT (Special) — City property owners in the west section of Crossett, have agreed to compromise in their bid to halt federal funds that would aid in paving, and drainage for city streets in that section.

The original federal grant of $280,000 was not matched by the November deadline and the money was appropriated elsewhere. A suit filed by property owners had delayed final approval of the grant until the deadline was past.

The improvement plan called for formation of districts for purposes of paving, and construction of curbs and gutters. The compromise plan would allow paving but no curbs or gutters.

Commissioners from the affected districts said that the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency in Ft. Worth, had assured them that $130,000 in federal funds would be available for matching funds for the compromise project.

W. P. Switzer, attorney for objecting property owners, reported that attorneys for the improvement district had asked for a postponement of the case scheduled for hearing on February 9th.

WON'T RECOGNIZE REDS

MADRID (UPI) — Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco has assured Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek he will not recognize Communist China "for the time being," informed sources said Friday. The sources said Franco told Chou Shu-kai, Nationalist Chinese ambassador to Spain, France's recognition of Communist China this week would not affect Spain's relations with the Chiang government on Formosa.

Most Panamanians Against Canal Zone Nationalization

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Latin American Editor
Copley News Service

There is no apparent danger the United States will lose the Panama Canal as a result of the current crisis there.

In fact, it can be said, most Panamanians don't want the 50-mile long inter-ocean waterway. They would rather have the United States run it.

Only the Communists talk about "nationalization" of the canal and even the Reds, knowing the Panamanian consensus and trying to appear reasonable, generally limit themselves to references to "eventual nationalization." They do not spell that out but presumably mean a peaceful takeover by Panama at some time in the distant future.

There is occasionally talk, even by Panamanian ambassadors abroad, of possible internationalization of the canal, with control placed under the United Nations or the Organization of American States.

As thoughtful Panamanians see it, that would be the worst possible solution. They rejected the idea years ago when President Truman suggested it and they still don't like it.

The fact that most talk of internationalization of the canal comes from Panamanian representatives overseas is worthy of some thought. Panama, like many other Latin American nations, has been accustomed to shipping potentially troublesome political leaders, those with appealing but hardly feasible theories, to interesting well-paid diplomatic posts abroad. This keeps them out of the way. That nationalization of the canal now is not among Panama's cherished ambitions was proven by an interview with the heads of the Communist-dominated Panamanian Students Federation.

The student leaders explained that they were insisting at this time on "demilitarization" of the Canal Zone and other such issues. Were nationalization a popular rallying cry, the Communists would have been trumpeting it at the top of their lungs, but they were not.

Despite what real and fancied difficulties Panamanians have had with the United States over the last 60 years, Panamanians generally seem to feel that once passions aroused over the bloody clashes on the Canal Zone border have subsided differences between the two countries can be worked out around a conference table.

The conferences, if they come, are not going to be easy.

There are a number of misunderstandings Panama wants cleared up before any fruitful talks can start.

First, Panamanians want it known that they are anti-Communists; that the Reds and Fidel Castro had little to do with the rioting against the United States.

Virtually all on-the-spot observers, including U. S. spokesmen as high as Canal Zone Gov. Robert Fleming, are in agreement that the Communists did not plan the disturbances. Though the Reds did participate in the trouble making, they never managed to gain control of the movement.

Fleming, in an exclusive interview in his offices on Quarry Heights in the Canal Zone, told me "I think we are dismissing (the Panama trouble) very, very easily, when we lay it on to a Communist plot."

Panamanians also insist that the spark that ignited the outbreak of Jan. 9 was struck by American students at Balboa High School in the Canal Zone.

Roman Catholic Bishop Mark McGrath, apostolic administrator of Panama, told newsmen that "groups of unthinking persons in the Canal Zone, ignoring Panama's clear rights and violating orders of their own governors touched off a cataclysm."

What he was referring to were those persons who incited the Balboa High students to defy Gov. Fleming's order not to fly the U. S. flag outside the school because arrangements had not been made to fly the Panamanian flag beside it, as the U. S. government had agreed with Panama.

What then is it that Panama wants out of the United States?

We asked President Roberto Chiari this question at a press conference and he ducked a straight answer. Panama would have to lay all its cards on the table, face up, he said, if it were to disclose what it hopes to get. Chiari said that he wants high level negotiations with the United States, without any prior agenda.

Who's Ahead?

There was a moment of elation in the United States this week when the giant Saturn rocket roared skyward carrying the largest known payload to date into outer space.

A Ranger spacecraft, launched in another operation, is scheduled to take pictures of the moon's surface from a distance of 500 miles.

Both these events have set Americans to wondering if we really hold an acknowledged lead over the Russians in the space race. In the back of many minds is the hope that we can maintain sufficient status in the military sense to prevent the aggressive Soviet government from launching a surprise attack against the free world.

So far as we know, the Russians have yet to use a rocket with such power as that of the Saturn. The moon photos the Soviet Union publicized as made with a rocket which could have hit a fly's eye, were considered of doubtful value by analysts.

But the irony of the situation came through clearly in a cartoon sketched rapidly by a man whose perspective often runs deeper than that in his drawing, Cal Alley of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. In the background was the Saturn, leaping upward in a blaze of cheers. In the foreground, however, was the descending smoke trail of a crippled U.S. Air Force trainer shot down mercilessly by Russian pilots only seven minutes inside the iron curtain.

This incident, coming after the firing of the Saturn, shows the Russians hardly gave our accomplishment in space a second thought. The order to keep the tension in effect is still there from the top down.

While the Russians like to blame their Chinese communist counterparts with a militant position, they themselves are more guilty of this in their actions. The Red Chinese leaders boast of moving forward through bloodshed, but the Russians seize every opportunity for actually shooting Americans.

In the face of this, the Russians will continue to push for the destruction of all aircraft bombers at the Geneva disarmament conference. Such a move would virtually knock out western Europe's striking force and leave the matter of defense in the hands of Russia and the United States.

The chief U.S. and Soviet delegates at the Geneva conference agreed the incident of the shooting down of the U.S. unarmed trainer should not disrupt efforts toward East-West agreements aimed at reducing cold war tensions.

Thus, in rapid summary, the events of the week seem to suggest that new advances in U.S. space technology do not cause the Russians to think twice. They will continue to talk coexistence and disarmament while carrying out deeds of violence at even the slightest provocation.

In response, the United States official position continues as one that will stand by and see its own military men shot dead rather than walk out of conferences or break off endless "negotiations" over a peace that does not really exist.

Vigorous Party Change

All election forecasters please take note: the man who personalized the "vigah" of the New Frontier has gone Republican. Just what effect this will have on this year's nominations and campaign is one for the experts to figure out.

But it has happened. Former Oklahoma University football coach, C. B. (Bud) Wilkinson, resigned this week as President Johnson's special consultant on physical fitness because of a "changed personal situation."

The physical fitness council was created by the late President Kennedy to "encourage the physical activity essential to our nation's welfare."

In accepting the resignation, President Johnson said the council had made an "effective start." He said the White House was "appreciative of Wilkinson's efforts on behalf of the youth of the nation."

This brings up the question as to why the resignation and ready acceptance if the head of the council on physical fitness was doing such a good job. What was the "changed personal situation?"

Acting Press Secretary Andrew

Shelters A Weapon?

Can a fallout shelter be turned into a weapon with strike capabilities? This question has come up in discussions of a new proposal to build more elaborate shelters in the nation's public buildings.

Back in June, 1963, the House passed a limited fallout shelter program. The Senate has not acted on a similar measure, so new discussions on the subject are making the rounds for the benefit of the senators.

The House bill calls for shelters in government buildings and certain other structures such as schools and hospitals. Nuclear experts, it seems, have been changing their opinions more recently as to the value of such shelters as protection against blast, fires, storms or fallout. Even with more elaborate preparations than converting existing basement space to shelters, the experts now maintain these would not offer sure protection.

Civil Defense officials and others supporting the original House position have now taken the stand that the United States would need shelters anyhow to convince Russia we would retaliate strongly if attacked. The theory appears to be based on the assumption that new shelters would prove we mean business.

If a real deterrent could be bought for the price of the shelters, around $200 million, that would be fine for the defense budget. But we can't see how admittedly unsafe shelters could convince the Soviets there was no use in firing.

Too many so-called "impregnable" fortresses in history have been toppled for this argument to hold its own weight. About the only thing that ever stopped an aggressive enemy with a big arsenal of weapons was another big arsenal of weapons in the hands of the defender.

Now To Try It With A Fresh Front

Red Guerrilla Snipers Moved Safely Out Of Panama Area

Some two-score Communist snipers and agitators, in the forefront of the destructive rioting and slaying of four U.S. soldiers in Panama, have been quietly allowed to leave that country.

They include eight professional Red killers who were seized and jailed by Panama National Guardsmen during the costly violence.

The Communist guerrillas — Panamanians, Cubans, Mexicans and other Latins, some of them veterans of the recent Red terrorist operations in Venezuela — were flown to Mexico. From there, a number have gone to Cuba.

Directly involved in this secret exodus are two top Panamanian officials — Education Minister Solis Palma and Eloy Benedetti, legal adviser to the Foreign Minister.

A DETAILED intelligence report charges that the two leftist Panamanian officials not only cleared the way for the surreptitious departure of the trained Red guerrillas and snipers, but arranged for their coming to Panama and were in constant touch with them during the murderous demonstrations. Benedetti particularly is credited with being in close contact with the imported Communist goons. He was especially active in getting those jailed released.

These sensational disclosures are being withheld from the U.S. public at the insistence of the State Department — on the ground that their publication might further complicate the tortuous and uncertain deliberations with the leftist-tinged regime of President Roberto Chiari.

Intelligence and military authorities vigorously dispute this view. They are urging President Johnson to make these facts known to prepare the American people for a possible Communist take-over in Panama.

It is contended there is grave danger of that.

Chiari's government is said to be so extensively infiltrated with Reds and fellow travelers that in order to stay in office, he will have to submit to the extremist demands of Palma and Benedetti.

It is asserted the two leftist leaders are claiming that only direct U.S. armed intervention can block Communist seizure of Panama.

ma are operating both underground and in the open.

The underground is financed and supplied chiefly by Cuba via Mexico. The visible apparatus holds key places in government and the university and controls the leftist wing of the Socialist Party, with more than 10,000 members.

Avowed aim of all the left-wing elements is to create the utmost dissension with the U.S. over the Canal and the Panama Zone issues.

The Departments of Education and Agriculture are heavily Communist infiltrated, as are the schools of law, journalism and education of the University of Panama. The university is the headquarters of the Communist underground, and middle-aged "permanent students," actually paid Red agitators, hold key places on the campus.

Thelma King, a pro-Castroite leader in the Socialist Party and member of the Panamanian Congress, is a forefront figure of the above-ground apparatus. Significantly, she returned from a visit to Cuba just before the rioting and killings. She made the trip by way of Mexico — as virtually all the leftists do.

An Afro-Panamanian, Mrs. King's principal propaganda organ is radio station Tribuna.

SENATE investigators of the scandal-smear of Otto Otepka, State Department security official, are on a new collision course with Secretary Dean Rusk.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is threatening to summon Rusk for public grilling unless he complies with demands for a detailed accounting of the State Department's handling of security problems.

In a bluntly worded memorandum unanimously approved by the committee, Senator James Eastland, D-Miss., chairman, has asked Rusk for the following:

A copy of a secret list of 800 State Department employees reputed to have derogatory information in their security files.

A full report on whether the State Department uses government agencies, such as the Central Intelligence Agency, or private organizations for wiretapping and investigative work in Washington.

"WE HAVE, on occasion, in the past year or more discussed with department officials our critical concern with the fact that, after completion of our initial investigative responsibilities, there remain on the department rolls about 800 individuals concerning whom the Office of Security has information which raises questions in major or minor degrees with respect to the criteria of Executive Order 10450, namely, questions as to possible past Communist activity or association, false statements, immoral conduct, homosexuality, and mental defects."

"Of the 800-odd individuals there are approximately 250 employees on whom the questions are, in my opinion, serious in relation to the broad security responsibility of their positions. Of this last group of 250, about 60 per cent are incumbent in high-level assignments in the department or in the field."

"This situation described is obviously serious and deserves urgent attention. Full investigation by the FBI should be undertaken of each employee, beginning with this group of 250.

SENATE investigators of the scandal-smear of Otto Otepka, State Department security official, are on a new collision course with Secretary Dean Rusk.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is threatening to summon Rusk for public grilling unless he complies with demands for a detailed accounting of the State Department's handling of security problems.

In a bluntly worded memorandum unanimously approved by the committee, Senator James Eastland, D-Miss., chairman, has asked Rusk for the following:

A copy of a secret list of 800 State Department employees reputed to have derogatory information in their security files.

A full report on whether the State Department uses government agencies, such as the Central Intelligence Agency, or private organizations for wiretapping and investigative work in Washington.

"WE HAVE, on occasion, in the past year or more discussed with department officials our critical concern with the fact that, after completion of our initial investigative responsibilities, there remain on the department rolls about 800 individuals concerning whom the Office of Security has information which raises questions in major or minor degrees with respect to the criteria of Executive Order 10450, namely, questions as to possible past Communist activity or association, false statements, immoral conduct, homosexuality, and mental defects."

"Of the 800-odd individuals there are approximately 250 employees on whom the questions are, in my opinion, serious in relation to the broad security responsibility of their positions. Of this last group of 250, about 60 per cent are incumbent in high-level assignments in the department or in the field."

"This situation described is obviously serious and deserves urgent attention. Full investigation by the FBI should be undertaken of each employee, beginning with this group of 250.

DeGaulle Turned Away From U.S.

Whatever France's motives in recognizing Red China, President Johnson may well suspect they were not friendly to him, nor that President De Gaulle considered the United States angle.

France's action followed by six weeks assurance which Secretary of State Dean Rusk believed he had been given by de Gaulle in Paris in mid-December that France had no intention of recognizing Red China, and apparently he put no time limit on the reported assurance.

That gave temporary relief to President Johnson and his advisers, then getting settled in the White House, for the problem of another United Nations vote on admitting Red China this fall, at the height of the U.S. presidential campaign, had already been considered.

Now it becomes a real threat, for diplomatic recognition by France makes almost certain that the Communist nations will move again to bring the Red Chinese into the United Nations, a move which failed last October 21 by only 57 to 41, with 12 countries abstaining.

IF THAT vote were taken again at the height of the political campaign, with several nations switching their stand with France's recognition as an excuse, future U.S. membership in the United Nations could become an issue in the campaign debate. Though both political parties in their platforms will unquestionably oppose Red China's proposed membership, the Johnson administration would almost certainly be on the defensive, if only because the U.S. representative in the United Nations, Adlai E. Stevenson is the spokesman of the administration.

Senator Barry Goldwater in his campaign for the Republican nomination, has hinted that under circumstances which he has not clearly defined, he might favor U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations, and that question may arise in the campaign debate, whether or not Goldwater is the Republican nominee.

Some members of Congress, discussing this possibility, have expressed an opinion that to raise the question at the height of the campaign would impress the non-Communist nations about this nation's feelings sufficiently to hold off United Nations majority against admission of Red China.

State Department officials believe this to be highly speculative, however, and wonder whether even Canada, which has traded extensively with Red China, might not support a proposal to give the Communist nation a seat on the U. N. Security Council.

IN CASE France is the sponsor of its new diplomatic collaboration, the de Gaulle government might be expected to move to defer action on the U. N. proposal until after the U.S. election. But de Gaulle is unpredictable as has often been demonstrated.

Regardless of when the vote is taken, and it is likely this year, the overwhelming sentiment of the American people against Red China's membership has been clearly expressed. More than 350 members of the House of Representatives have aligned themselves against it. Even that however may not affect the attitude of U.N. members and a vote to admit Communist China, regardless of the margin, would leave the United States in a hemmed in position for the first time since the United Nations was formed in 1946, with some free western nations joining France, Asia and Africa on the other side of what is probably the most important proposal the "international parliament" has yet faced.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Aging Harriman Seeks Neutrality

As he grows older, Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman becomes more stubborn, more dictatorial, and less able to understand the forces at work in Southeast Asia. It was Mr. Harriman who compelled Laos to accept a phoney "neutrality" which has made that strategic country a corridor for Communist arms to South Vietnam.

To win his point, Mr. Harriman alienated Thailand and the Philippines. He rode roughshod over Laotian anti-Communists and stated publicly that the loss of the country to the Communists would make no difference to the West.

Now he is at it again — and the situation grows ever more critical in Southeast Asia. His latest "strategy" is to "neutralize" Cambodia — already hostile to us and leaning toward Communist China — by setting up an international commission which would block the transit of Communist arms to other Southeast Asian countries. The commission, made up of that impotent combination of Canadian, Polish, and Indian diplomats which is now presiding over the takeover of Laos by the Reds, would merely preside over Cambodia's engulfment.

THE THAIS will have no part of this piecemeal surrender to the Chinese Reds and to the eventual submergence of Southeast Asia under a Communist tide. The South Vietnamese are also dead set against the Harriman plan for a conference which would endorse the so-called "neutralization" of Cambodia. Like many other countries in the area, they are firmly convinced that the United States is planning to pull out of its costly military involvement and let Southeast Asia fend for itself.

It is, in fact, being said by some representatives of Southeast Asian countries that this is behind the Harriman policies. His hopes for a neutrality conference are seen as window dressing and little else.

But window dressing for what?

DIPLOMATS here say that Mr. Harriman remains convinced that the only way to deal with Communist Chinese expansionism is not to deal with it at all. The Chinese Reds, he is said to argue, will win anyway — so why involve ourselves in a war which dooms us to defeat? It we pull out now, the chances will be better for some kind of accommodation with Peking — or that's the way the reasoning goes.

The Harriman policies have already had dangerous repercussions. If the United States wants out — and our allies in Europe see no other explanation for what we are doing — that leaves a power vacuum in South east Asia. President de Gaulle plans to move in where we have pulled out. His overtures to the South Vietnamese are part of his strategy for a new era for France in Asia.

At the same time, M. de Gaulle sees himself as the bridge between the Chinese Communists and the United States. His plan to recognize Red China is part of this grandiose and foolish dream. Bridges to the Communist world tend to dangle open — over the deep ravine of West hostility — and the of those who ventured out on them moulder in the brush.

BUT PRESIDENT de Gaulle has valid arguments. He has been saying to all who will hear him that the United States is a fickle partner, ready as always to fight to the last drop of everybody else's blood in the defense of the West. He can point to Laos, which accepted our promises, and to the Cuban Freedom Fighters, who gambled all on the assurance that they would have American help. He can also point to our haste in shutting down missile bases and cutting back our arms program simply on the "assurances" from a few politicians in this country that Nikita Khrushchev is really not such a bad guy after all — and that maybe he means this "peaceful co-existence" propaganda.

The French see, moreover, that Averell Harriman wields great power in American foreign policy councils. Mr. Harriman claims great insight into the thought processes of the Communists. He can dig up a quote here or a quote there to show that he was right about this or that. But an examination of his record demonstrates that these quotes are out of context, that Mr. Harriman has been as glib as the Reds as let us say, Wendell Willkie.

Mr. Harriman's faction in the State Department helped engineer the coup d'etat in South Vietnam — presumably to speed up the war and bring victory nearer. But the Communist Viet Cong has profited most from the shake-up, and the military situation deteriorates daily.

THE HARRIMAN plan for a "neutral" Southeast Asia makes as much sense as our continued aid to President Sukarno of Indonesia, bolstering a regime that prepares for war against Malaysia. There is, in fact, no logic and no morality to the "neutrality" policy — only the stubborn and unreasonable desires of Averell Harriman.

Young Demos

Radical Groups

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—After spirited debate, the platform committee of the Young Democratic Clubs of America approved a resolution Friday that condemns extremist groups on both the right and left.

The resolution was widely interpreted as a slap at a segment of the group's own membership. It was adopted 24-9 despite vigorous attempts by New York and California delegates to beat it down.

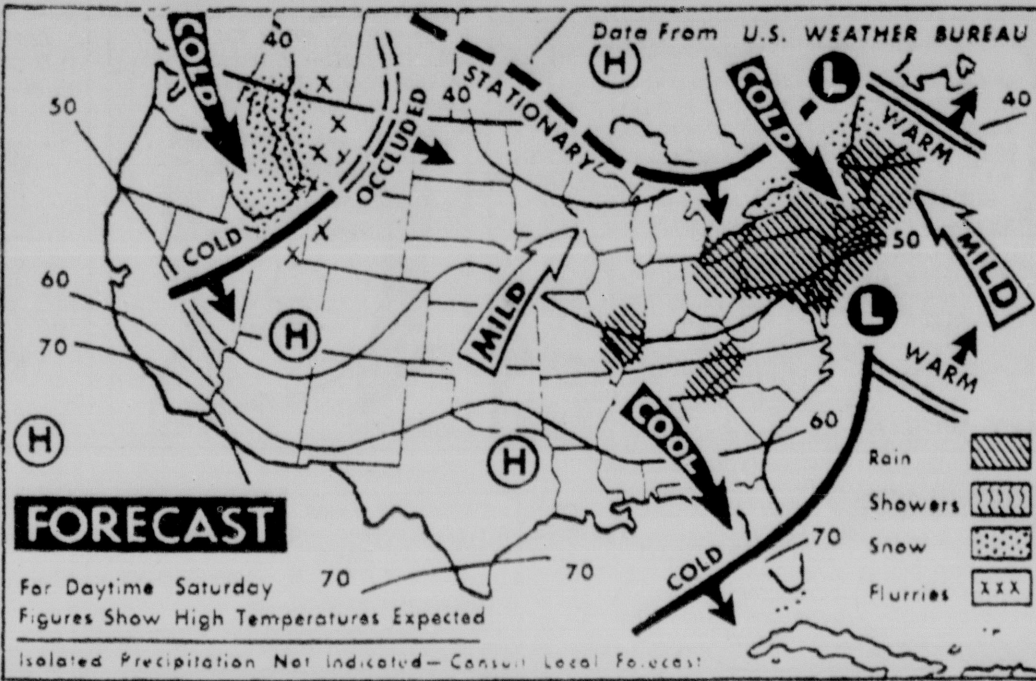

There was opposition, also, from the Arizona delegation, which offered a strongly worded anti-John Birch Society resolution as a substitute.

The successful proposal, advanced by Nevada, deplored "the tactics of the 'lunatic left,' just as we deplore the tactics of the 'lunatic right.'"

It names no organizations, although the Americans for Democratic Action and the American Civil Liberties Union were cited as "objectionable by Michigan." The John Birch Society was frequently mentioned as the chief target at the other end of the political spectrum.

A civil rights plank also won the committee's approval 29-4.

The resolution endorsed the civil rights legislation now before Congress and urged that it be passed without crippling changes.

De Gaulle Wants Neutralized Area

issued a statement that the move implied a French break with the Formosa-based government of Chiang. Paris denied this.

De Gaulle had advanced previously the idea of neutralizing Communist North Viet Nam and U.S.-backed Republic of South Viet Nam. Opposition to this was a factor in the Saigon coup Thursday that made Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh the new South Viet Nam strong man.

The French president told the newsmen France had been favorable for years to the idea of recognizing Red China and had already held direct negotiations on Southeast Asia affairs with Peking emissaries in 1954 and 1962 at Geneva conferences.

The Geneva conference of 1954 theoretically established a neutral status for the states of the former French Indochina. The treaty ending that conference was in effect an international guarantee. Red China signed it. The United States refused to do so, but said it would abide by its terms.

One provision of the Geneva accord was that none of the states could join a military bloc or permit the establishment of a foreign military base on its territory.

"The sum of evidence and reason weighing more heavily every day," De Gaulle said, "the French republic decided to place its relationship with the popular republic of China on a normal basis."

"In Asia, there is no political reality concerning Cambodia."

Laos, Viet Nam, or even India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Burma, Korea, or even Soviet Russia, or Japan, etc., which does not interest and touch China.

"On this continent, there is no peace, and no war, imaginable without it (China) being involved and it is inconceivable to suppose that a neutrality treaty could ever be concluded concerning the states of Southeast Asia, to which we French attach a very special and cordial attention, without China being a party."

Among the three former French colonies on the Indochinese peninsula, a neutrality treaty has already been concluded for Laos. Prince Norodom Sihanouk, chief of state of Cambodia, has asked a similar solution for his country. De Gaulle made his suggestion last summer that this was the only solution for divided Viet Nam.

He told the news conference that such neutrality "ought to include on the part of these states, naturally, their acceptance, which ought to be guaranteed in the international sphere, which ought to exclude both every armed action supported by anyone of these states against or on the territory of any other, and also exclude various forms of foreign intervention."

"(This neutrality) very well seems, in the era in which we live, to be the only situation compatible with the peaceful life and progress on the population."

De Gaulle devoted most of his long discourse to domestic affairs, such as the working of the French construction which he installed. European relations and cooperation with other nations. Nothing that he said represented any break with past statements on these subjects.

He said that he did not believe the United States presidential system would be workable in France and that he thought the present system should be kept, since it is working well. The constitution of the Fifth Republic gives the president some powers that the chief executive of the United States shares with courts and Congress.

Bid Receives Approval Of Top Officials

to be reached in complicated diplomatic sessions.

The U.S. proposal was approved by President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. Ball presented it to the British, Greek and Turkish ambassadors at the State Department on Friday morning.

U.S. officials said the plan responds to a week-old British plea for help, and is aimed at preventing dangerous conflict between two North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, Greece and Turkey, without putting the United States in the middle in Cyprus' internal troubles.

These authoritative U.S. sources stressed that all the parties involved must accept key provisions of the U.S. plan if it is to be carried out.

Key elements of the U.S. plan were listed as:
1. Stationing on Cyprus of a peace-keeping force composed of troops from a number of NATO countries with a Briton in command.

2. The outside force would be withdrawn in three months. This period was deemed sufficient to calm things down enough so that an effort for a long-term solution of the problems between Cyprus' Greek majority population and Turkish minorities could get under way.

3. The parties involved would agree on appointing a mediator to bring about a Cyprus solution. The mediator would not be an American or from one of the three powers guaranteeing Cyprus' independence — Britain, Greece or Turkey.

U.S. officials said it has not yet been decided who would be the European mediator or who would supply peace-keeping forces beside the United States and the three guarantor powers. West German and Italian troops were considered a possibility.

Under the American scheme, the 2,700-man British, 950-man Greek and 650-man Turkish garrisons on Cyprus would be part of the peace-keeping force. The British contingent could be increased but not the Greek or Turkish.

The Cyprus president, Archbishop Makarios, was reported demanding that the peace-keeping force come under the United Nations. This was rejected by Washington authorities on the grounds that it would bring the Communist countries into the situation, since they are U.N. members.

Turkey was reported to be pushing for an increase in the size of its garrison.

Cyprus became independent of Great Britain in 1960 but its 450,000 Greeks and 100,000 Turks never have achieved harmonious relations and violence erupted afresh this winter.

Prosecution Strives For Link With Rifle

on the verdict of the jury of 12 white men.
For the first time since the trial started last Monday, spectators filled all of the 300 seats in the courtroom during the afternoon session.

A city detective told of finding a perfect sniper's nest in a patch of honeysuckle and sweet gum trees across the street from the driveway where a rifle bullet killed Evers.

Detective John Chamblee described the clump of bushes and trees as a perfect concealment, 200 feet from the place where Evers was shot.

Two witnesses backed up Chamblee's opinion that the fatal shot came out of the bushes on the edge of a vacant lot.

Mrs. Betty Jean Coley, a slender 32-year-old brunette, and 17-year-old Kenneth Adeock, said they were walking together on a street near the bushes when the shot broke the midnight quiet.

They heard a man running away, they said, but startled and frightened—they kept walking to the house where they both lived.

The widow of the slain Negro leader testified briefly.

She told of hearing the shot, rushing outside the house, and finding her husband dying in a pool of blood on the carport.

Her hands folded in her lap, she spoke slowly and distinctly.

Several times, her voice came close to cracking. But otherwise, she showed no signs of emotion.
Beckwith, a Citizens Council member with a reputation as an outspoken segregationist, listened intently to the testimony from his seat at the defense table.

Sometimes erect, sometimes slouched over with his elbow on the table and his chin on his fist, Beckwith wore a dark blue suit and a dark necktie.

He occasionally scribbled notes in a black ringbinder notebook.

He nodded to an acquaintance among the spectators from time to time—but now soberly, without the smile he flashed during the four days of jury selection.

A few feet away, Beckwith's wife sat on the front row of spectators in a section reserved for officers of the court. She wore a fur stole and a red dress.

When she made her first appearance at the trial yesterday, Beckwith greeted her with kisses. They showed no signs of the storm in their marriage. They have been divorced and remarried twice.

Behind her, spectators began to fill the courtroom. But still, they failed to take all of the 300 seats. Most were Negroes.

Uniformed officers continued to search everybody entering the courtroom. They took down names and addresses of all spectators.

Chamblee, a detective sergeant, testified he arrived on the scene barely minutes after the shooting.

At one point, he said the bloody scene around Evers' car and took one step before the bullet hit him in the back.

he said the trail of blood behind Evers "looked like you had poured it out of a bucket."

From specks of blood and particles of flesh on the hood of Evers' car, Chamblee said it appeared Evers stepped out of the car and took one step before the bullet hit him in the back.

2nd Annual Optimist Clinic Starts Today

The second annual Optimist Boys Baseball Clinic opens this morning with youngsters from all over north Louisiana expected to attend and receive instruction from major league players, former players, managers and scouts.

Weather permitting, the clinic will be held in Legion Stadium and the adjoining Little League park, boys from age 8 to 13 being instructed in the Little League park and boys 14 and over in Legion Stadium.

In the event of bad weather, the clinic will be held at the Benoit Recreation Center on Oaklawn Drive.

"We want to emphasize that this clinic will be held, rain or shine," said Clinic Chairman Bobby Friday. "In case of rain, we will hold the clinic at Benoit Recreation Center, which has a large gym that can be used for instruction. The center also has a large parking area that can be used for instruction."

The first clinic session will be from 10 a.m. to 12:30 today with one group of instructors working with boys 8 to 13 and another group working with boys 14 and over.

The clinic will end with a 1:30-3:30 session Sunday afternoon for all boys. A demonstration by instructors will highlight the Sunday session.

"We think the demonstration Sunday will be one of the best parts of the clinic," says Bruce. "The instructors will demonstrate various fielding plays as well as base running, pitching and hitting. It should be the next best thing to seeing a major league game."

There is no charge for the clinic. Boys are asked only to bring a glove.

Bruce said he was expecting at least 1,000 boys for each of the two clinic sessions, including a large number from out of town.

He said that coaches from throughout the Monroe area had been invited to the clinic also.

"Coaches and managers will be allowed on the field to observe the instruction and I think all of them will find the clinic well worth the trip," Bruce said.

Grambling Will Host Prairie View Cagers

GRAMBLING (Special) — Not too long ago, Bob Hopkins was a star forward at Grambling college who divided his time equally between scoring and rebounding.

Hopkins performed ardently, scoring more points than any player in basketball history — 3,759 — and established NCAA and NAIA rebounding records with 2,191. He was the school's first bonafide All-American and later starred in the National Basketball Association with Syracuse. Hopkins returns to Grambling tonight in a different role.

The former Jonesboro ace was recently named coach at Prairie View and will bring his Panthers to town for a Southwestern Conference game.

Grambling will put its No. 2 ranking against the visitors who have edged the locals in three of the last five meetings.

The Tigers command the SWAC rostrum, but Prairie View is shooting for an upset. Hopkins occasioned no surprise late Friday when he predicted a Panther victory. The tip-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Neville Officially In New District; No 4-A Created

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — The Louisiana High School Athletic Association made no changes Friday in the number of school classes.

A proposal to add a higher classification — AAAA — was tabled.

The triple-A class meeting decided to keep the number of districts at the present number of five and to add new teams to the districts.

Eight new teams were transferred from double-A class to triple-A districts and Terrebonne of Houma was switched from district three to district 5.

Changes by districts:

One: Neville of Monroe added.

Two: Northside of Lafayette and Pineville added.

Three: Terrebonne transferred to Five. Broadmoor, Lee, Baker and Glen Oaks, all of Baton Rouge, added.

Four: No change.

Five: Terrebonne transferred from Three. South Terrebonne and Thibodaux added.

The first event of the clinic was held Friday night with Optimist Club members and their wives hosting a party for instructors and their wives at the Virginia Hotel, clinic headquarters. A barbecue for the instructors is slated today at the American Legion Home and a golf tournament is scheduled Sunday morning at Highland Park Country Club in West Monroe.

Clinic instructors will be Wayne Causey, Billy Muffett, Ed Head, Mel Parnell, Tony John, Buddy Hancken, Gene Freese, Dickie Crowe, Fred Southerland, Walker Cross, Dalton Jones,

Connie Ryan, Lenny Yuchim, Matt Batts, Johnny Fetzter, Red Murff, Al Vincent, Harry Strohm, George Digby, Fred McAllister, Ed Stevens, Gerald Didier, Mel Didier, Jack Reed, Bob Carter, Hugh Alexander and Art Swanson. Northeast

Also Dutch Lobeer, ex-Detroit catcher now a scout; Jess Landrum, scout for the Philadelphia Phillies, and Buster Mills, New York Yankee Scout.

Northeast baseball coach George Luffey, previously slated to be an instructor, will be out of town Saturday and unable to attend.

AMATEURS SUBSIDIZED

Inside Hockey Story Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Canadian hockey official told Senate investigators Friday that professional hockey players are developed by openly subsidizing "amateurs" with money and free education.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said this seemed "sunder and morally stronger than the practice of slipping them money to play college football," or providing "amateur" jobs on which they never work.

Clarence Campbell, a Canadian who is president of the National Hockey League, said he regards open subsidies as better for the sport

FRANCE'S LATEST CALL

U.S. Icy Toward Neutralized Asia

WASHINGTON (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle's latest call for a neutralized Southeast Asia including South Viet Nam drew an icy reception from the United States on Friday.

While the State Department and the White House declined to comment directly on the French leader's news conference statements, an official spokesman made clear the United States is opposed to any thought of neutralizing South Viet Nam.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said,

"There has been no change in our determination to assist the people of Viet Nam to preserve their country against terror and aggression from Hanoi (the capital of North Viet Nam)."

"The entire U.S. effort has been manifestly demonstrated," he said. "We are assisting in fighting a very serious war in South Viet Nam and that is the first order of business."

The question of neutralizing the country is not under consideration here and the United States is opposed to any idea of its neutralization, he said.

Interest in De Gaulle's news conference had been building up since it became known that France was granting recognition to Communist China. Of chief interest: How would De Gaulle handle the embarrassing two-Chinas question?

U.S. officials were not completely surprised that De Gaulle chose to get around the issue by ignoring it. But this did provide a sense of anti-Comm.

The United States, however, does not expect De Gaulle to be troubled by the recognition problem as much as Peking has been.

De Gaulle's kind words for Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek as a patriot whose efforts in World War II will be appreciated by all Chinese tended to soften the blow of his recognition of Peking. However, it was certain to annoy the Chinese Communists, who have condemned Chiang as a "bandit" for years.

De Gaulle during World War II was in the same position as Chiang is today. He had been driven from his country but refused to give up the fight to return and demanded full recognition from the Allies that he represented all of France.

For this reason, it would seem inconsistent for De Gaulle to break his ties with Nationalist China, though there was some speculation that France may encourage the Nationalists to take this step over the next months.

RIOTING HALTS

Cleveland's Mixers Begin Silent Sit-In

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Solomn, silent civil rights demonstrators marched into the board of education building Friday following two days of wild rioting in this industrial city and began sit-in demonstrations.

About 100 whites and Negroes representing civil rights groups lined the corridors of the building while another 100 marched outside, protesting alleged segregation of Negro pupils transported by bus to predominantly white schools to relieve overcrowding in Hazeldehl School.

It was this dispute that touched off two days of violence, the first outbreak of civil rights rioting the city has experienced. Six persons were hospitalized and a score more were injured in the fighting.

Friday's demonstration centered around the office of the school board president, Ralph McAllister, who met with members of the Collinwood Improvement Association, a white group which opposes further integration in the three receiving schools involved in the dispute.

The demonstrators were members of the United Freedom Movement (UFM) and the Hazeldehl Parents Association. The pickets outside the building marched silently, bearing signs reading "Stop confusion with diffusion — grant integration with education," "Diffusion a cruel hoax" and "ghetto schools must go."

The school board informally promised Thursday to initiate complete integration of the transported pupils by September of this year.

JURY TAMPERING TRIAL

Witness Testifies Of 'Help' Approach

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — (UPI) — A government witness testified Friday that he was approached for "help" in an alleged attempt to fix a jury hearing conspiracy charges against Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Nashville bartender Dallas Hall testified that he was approached by Nicholas Tweel, one of five persons on trial here with Hoffa on charges of tampering with a federal jury.

Hall said Tweel gave him names of jurors in the 1962 conspiracy trial at Nashville and was told "it would be worth something to me and other parties to find somebody to help on" the trial.

The prosecution also introduced testimony of another witness, Hazel Fulton, in an attempt to prove that names of the jurors were given to Tweel by Allen Dorfman, close business associate of Hoffa.

Hoffa, Tweel, Dorfman and three others are charged with attempting to bribe and influence jurors in the conspiracy trial. The conspiracy trial, in which Hoffa was accused of sharing a $1 million kickback, ended in a mistrial.

The union leader showed little emotion while listening to the testimony. He can be sentenced to 20 years in prison if convicted of the jury tampering charges.

Hall said he met Tweel in November, 1962, while the conspiracy trial was in progress, only a short distance away from the bar at which he worked.

The approach for soliciting "help" in the trial was made in a series of three phone calls, Hall said.

Hall said Tweel, head of a Huntington, W. Va., tobacco firm, called him at the bar and "he asked me if I was familiar with the Hoffa trial."

"I said I heard about it, but wasn't interested," Hall added.

The bartender said Tweel later "gave the names of jurors" in the trial, but that he only pretended to write them down during the course of the phone conversation.

"He said he'd check with me later," Hall testified. On the third call, he said, Tweel told him "just forget it."

Miss Fulton, a thrice-married, red-haired bookkeeper at Tweel's firm, testified earlier Friday that her employer received a list of names from a man who identified himself as Dorfman.

Dorfman is a Chicago insurance broker, and his firm does a large volume of its business with the Teamsters Union.

Miss Fulton testified that the phone call was made on Nov. 27, 1962, and that the caller gave her a list of names, addresses and occupations of Tennessee residents.

The woman said she typed three copies of the list and gave them to Tweel.

Stalin Era Film Successful At Moscow Movies

MOSCOW (UPI) — A movie about the Josef Stalin era's brutality, injustice and hypocrisy has soared to such popularity in Moscow that its theater has been booked solid for more than nine weeks in advance.

Entitled "Tishina," (Silence), the three and one-half hour film opened last Saturday in the Rossiya Theater.

At performances since then, many older Muscovites among the 3,500 persons in each audience have been seen weeping.

"Comrade, have you a spare ticket?" asked a teen-age Russian girl outside the theater.

She was standing in one of the many groups of teen-agers and adults who are accosting ticket-holders, offering as much as five rubles ($5.50) for a one ruble ($1.10) ticket.

Judge Gives Sentence For Mix Incident

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — A state judge Friday sentenced a Negro civil rights leader to six months in jail on a charge he encouraged a 7th grade student to skip school for several days. The student was later found on a picket line.

Forrest County Judge William Haralson found Lawrence Guyot Jr., 24, guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor—a 13-year-old Negro pupil.

The judge also fined Guyot $500 but suspended five months of the sentence on condition of good behavior.

Pickets continued marching in front of the courthouse where Negroes have been staging a voter registration drive since Jan. 22. Over 200 have taken tests so far.

Police have arrested 12 during the demonstrations, including nine picketing ministers.

Guyot, who is area field secretary in Hattiesburg for the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, must also post a $500 peace bond when he gets out of jail. He forfeits the bond if he breaks the law.

The girl's mother testified the girl left home Tuesday, Jan. 21. The mother said she didn't locate her until Friday when she found the girl marching in the rain before the courthouse.

"She was dirty and wet and everything," the mother said. "She just looked pitiful. I told her to come out of that line."

In a statement to police, the girl was quoted as saying Guyot gave her money and food and a place to stay. She said Guyot encouraged her to stay in the picket line and to go to various schools and get other children to do the same thing.

Eight of the Presbyterian ministers arrested earlier come to trial Monday on charges of disorderly conduct. A ninth minister—Rev. Roy G. Smith of Boulder, Colo.—was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $125 Thursday. He was charged with disobeying an officer.

A POSTNUPTIAL PARTY was the courtesy extended for Mrs. George A. Elias, the former Betty Hopson, by a group of hostesses last Sunday afternoon. Pictured before the tea, which was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Moses on Park Avenue, are, left from right, Mrs. Moses, Mrs. Menier Cannon and Mrs. J. R. Namie, all hostesses, the honoree, her mother-in-law, Mrs. George Elias, and Mrs. William Mathieu, another hostess.

Lynda Bassett, Lloyd Sharbono Supper Honorees

Miss Lynda Bernice Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bassett of Monroe, and her fiancé, Gomer Lloyd Sharbono Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Sharbono of Rayville, were honored at a buffet supper Thursday night following rehearsal for their wedding, which was solemnized Friday night in the First Baptist Church of Rayville.

Hostesses for the rehearsal supper were Mrs. D. E. Barr and Mrs. Sharbono, mother of the bridegroom, who entertained at the Barr home in Rayville.

Central decor for the buffet table was a cupid epergne filled with seasonal fruit.

Attending with the betrothed couple and members of their wedding party were out-of-town

Tea Shower Compliments Mrs. George A. Elias

Mrs. Fred Moses entertained at her home on Park Avenue last Sunday afternoon with a tea shower, complimentary to Mrs. George A. Elias, the former Miss Betty Hopson. Sharing hostess honors with Mrs. Moses were Mrs. Menier Cannon, Mrs. William Mathieu, Mrs. Al Hakim and Mrs. J. R. Namie.

The bride received guests who called between 3 and 5 Sunday afternoon with Mrs. George Elias, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Moses. The honoree wore an off-white brocade costume suit accented by a red carnation corsage, a gift from her hostesses.

Pink roses were seen in the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bassett and son, Tuck, from Coudersport, Pa., who are en route to their new home in Houston, Texas.

house decorations, while white chrysanthemums arranged in a silver epergne were used in the dining room, where the tea table was covered with an imported linen cloth. White candles in silver candle sticks completed the decor.

Mrs. Joe Haddad and Mrs. Louis Elias presided at the silver service, pouring spiced tea and coffee. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Ned Thomas and Miss Vickie Cannon.

Approximately seventy-five guests called during the afternoon.

SHOWER

Mrs. Fred Hancock Jr. was co-hostess with Mrs. Hancock Sr. for last Tuesday's bridal shower honoring Miss Hesketh. The twenty-five guests who called between the evening hours of 7 and 9 p.m. were greeted by the bride-elect, who wore a pink double knit suit and a gift corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Hancock Sr. was attired in a turquoise silk sheath and her daughter-in-law, a white wool shift trimmed in mink.

Little Miss Maurianne Hancock presented gifts of a personal nature to the bride-to-be from a green and white decorated cart, from which an umbrella was suspended.

The serving table in the dining room was draped in a hand drawn linen cutwork cloth imported from Italy. An arrangement of white chrysanthemums and greenery formed the centerpiece, while green and white sprayed ivy encircled the antique cut glass punch bowl, a cherished possession of the Don Juan Filhiol family.

Final Courtesies Given For Judith Ann Hesketh, Mr. Bragg Prior To Vows

A supper party held last night at the home of Mrs. E. R. Timmerman on South Grand completed the pre-nuptial courtesies honoring Miss Judith Ann Hesketh and Gerald Ray Bragg in preparation for their marriage this evening at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church. Earlier in the week, Miss Hesketh was complimented with a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Fred Hancock Sr. on Glenmar.

An arrangement of pink carnations in a silver epergne centered the table for the supper party last night, which followed the couple's wedding rehearsal. A white lace cloth was used as covering for the table.

For the occasion, the bride wore a beige wool suit accented by brown accessories.

Guests invited to share the evening with the couple were their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hesketh and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bragg, Major and Mrs. William Killoch, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Party Honors Couple Prior To Wedding

The Lotus Club was the setting Friday evening for a rehearsal party honoring Miss Warren Nelson and Richard Drew Jr., whose marriage will be solemnized this evening at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson are the parents of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Drew were hosts for the party.

Centering the refreshment table was a large milk glass compote filled with carnations and chrysanthemums. Candles encircled with sprays of greenery and ribbon flanked the arrangement.

Joining the honored couple for the evening's compliment were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson, Miss Joy Humble, Miss Charlotte Daniels, Miss Kay Norris, Miss Clara Dee Drew, Miss Kathy Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Quenton McLeMore, Miss Nancy McLeMore, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Day and Gregg, Bob Ballard, Don Waters, Stanley Green, John Salisbury, Jimmy Nelson, Drew Armstrong, Don Baker, Ronnie Brothers and Mrs. Clara Gilliland.

No need to frost a banana cake if you serve it soon after it comes from the oven. Treat it like a pudding: cut it in squares and pass a lemon sauce. The pudding-cake may be further embellished for company by adding an extra accompaniment of whipped cream or whipped soft cream cheese. A little finely grated lemon rind will look pretty sprinkled over the cream or cheese.

DEAR ABBY

I Wanted To Share It— Not Applaud Author!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As a journalist, responsible for writing the truth, did you do a competent research job before giving credit to the Houston Police Department for "Ten Easy Rules For Raising A Delinquent?"

Sincerely yours,
MINISTER.

PHILLIPSBURG, KANSAS

My dear Reverend: The item in question was sent to me by a Chicago reader, crediting the Houston Police Department with authorship. Believing that people are honest until proved otherwise, I ran it verbatim, including the credit. My primary purpose in using the item was to share it with my readers, not to applaud the author. I have since heard from 22 readers, each ascribing authorship of "The Rules" to a different source. If the Houston Police Department did not originate them, I hope the real author will step forward, make himself known and accept my apologies. And now I am reminded of an appropriate quote (I know not whose): "There is no end to the amount of good people could accomplish in this world if nobody cared who got the credit."

Respectfully yours,
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR MR. FARABEE: I don't know for which newspaper you work, but they are lucky. Although I gave a great deal of thought to my reply, I must admit I missed the boat. Your answer was better, and I thank you.

Parties Precede Wedding Today Of Rayville Couple

A bridesmaid luncheon today at 11:30 a.m. will conclude a number of prenuptial courtesies for Miss Billie Joe Hanchey, whose marriage to Billy Rice Beevers will be solemnized this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Rayville Methodist Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Billy Hanchey and Mr. and Mrs. Wilborn D. Beevers, all of Rayville.

Mrs. Alvin McCarty and Mrs. Oliver P. Lowery will be hostesses for the luncheon today at the former's home. The honoree will wear a pink silk shift with white silk blouse.

Tiny rice bags will mark places for the hostesses, honoree, and other guests, Miss Bonnie Beevers, Miss Sue Waite, Miss Charlotte McCarty, Mrs. Ron Reece, Mrs. Ken Hollis, Mrs. D. C. Beevers, Mrs. W. D. Beevers, Mrs. J. B. Hanchey, and Mrs. Zelma Hanchey.

REHEARSAL DINNER
The Magnolia Restaurant in Rayville was the scene last evening of a dinner party following the wedding rehearsal. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. John Billy Hanchey. White tapers were used with smilax down the length of the tables.

The bride-elect, dressed in a sheath of white crepe, exchanged gifts with her fiancé. Other guests included their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hanchey and Mr. and Mrs. Beevers, Mrs. Zelma Hanchey, Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Walton, Mrs. Frank L. Greaves Jr., Jerry Futch, Mrs. Ronald Reece, Mrs. Ken Hollis, Miss Charlotte McCarty, Miss Sue Waite, Miss Bonnie Beevers, Billy Foster Johnston, James C. Adams III, Bobby Oswalt, James G. Mayo, Mrs. R. E. O'Connor, Bob Meredith, Harvey Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Patton Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Kitchens, Tom Kitchens, and James Kitchens.

RECIPE PARTY
Miss Hanchey was honoree at an informal recipe and household hint party Thursday evening, January 30, given by Mrs. A. C. Clark Jr. and Mrs. Homer Norris at the Norris home at Rayville.

Arrangements of colorful fruits and flowers were noted throughout the reception rooms. Of special note was a table which held a recipe book for guests to write recipes and household hints to the bride. The game of Password was played using kitchen words. Also each guest autographed and wrote words of advice on dish cloths for the honoree.

Miss Hanchey, wearing a lilac wool shift, shared the evening occasion with her hostesses and guests, who included Miss Charlotte McCarty, Miss Betty Calvert, Miss Sue Waite, Miss Bena Ball, Miss Bonnie Beevers, Mrs. Doyle Ruff, Mrs. W. D. Beevers, Mrs. Ron Reece, Mrs. Orie Gene Morris, Mrs. Kenneth Newsum, and Mrs. J. B. Hanchey.

Add a pinch of ginger and one of nutmeg plus sugar for sweetening to a half pint of heavy cream that is to be whipped and served atop a mildly-flavored pumpkin pie.

ROBOTS AT HOME

A self-propelled vacuum cleaner housed in the baseboard, and windows that close automatically when it begins to rain are just two indications of what's to come for the homemaker, reports the American Home Economics Association. But that's not all. By 1982 many dishes will be throw-away plastic produced by individual home molding sets. Closets, what's more, will be equipped with ultrasonic devices which will automatically rid garments of particles of dirt.

FROZEN COOKIES

When you remove baked cookies from the freezer, unwrap them and let them stand at room temperature for at least 15 minutes before serving.

January Club Meetings Held In Jonesville

"Business Center, or Study Center For the Home" was the subject for the program of the Jonesboro Home Demonstration Club at their January meeting held on Tuesday afternoon in the courthouse.

The president, Mrs. R. J. Cobb, opened the meeting. During the business session, a permanent meeting place for the club was discussed, and permission was granted for the group to hold their regular monthly meetings in the Recreation Center at the City Park at 1:30 p.m. The score card for the Honor Roll was discussed and new year books were distributed.

Mrs. R. L. Plummer presented "The Story of Six Fabric Finishes" which was enlightening in purchasing dress and suit materials. Mrs. Jimmy Gaines presided over part of the program on food, after which Mrs. Cloy gave her demonstration.

The president, Mrs. Cobb, presented each member with a decorative pin cushion as a favor. Mrs. E. L. Thompson was appointed as secretary to replace Mrs. Cecil Garrett.

During a social hour the group was served refreshments by the hostesses, Mrs. W. H. Jones Sr. and Mrs. Webb Swanner. Those present were Mrs. J. J. Garner, Mrs. Jeff Thomas, Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Mrs. A. L. Weeks, Mrs. R. B. Jones, Mrs. R. J. Cobb, Mrs. J. Gaines, Mrs. R. L. Plummer, Mrs. Jean Cloy and the hostesses.

The club welcomed a new member, Mrs. Walker McDonald.

COSMOS CLUB

The January meeting of Jonesboro Cosmos Club was held in the home of Mrs. I. J. Allen with Mrs. Pauline Littlefield as co-hostess.

In the absence of the president, the meeting was opened by the past secretary, Mrs. Iva McMurray. New officers for the club are Miss Callie Walker, president; Mrs. Jay Garner, secretary; Mrs. Janie Bryan, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Cobb, reporter.

After the business session, games were played, under the direction of the recreation chairman, Mrs. Mary Tait.

Guests were then invited into the dining room and seated at a table centered with a compote containing fruit. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Iva McMurray, Mrs. Kate Whitten, Mrs. Frances Rochelle, Mrs. J. A. Harrison, Mrs. Jeff Thomas, Mrs. Richard Cobb, Mrs. Ida Blankenship, Mrs. Mary Tait, Mrs. Jay Garner, Mrs. A. C. Holley, Mrs. Janie Bryan, Mrs. Callie Walker, and the hostesses.

Rich and good: Heat light cream and mix with very hot strong coffee and chocolate syrup. For each serving, use 1/4 cup of the cream, 1/2 cup of the coffee and a couple of tablespoons of the chocolate syrup. If you like, top with a fluff of whipped cream, but this is really gilding the lily!

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Home Painter Passes Along Favorite Tip

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I would like to pass along one of my favorite hints:

When I open a new can of paint, I take a strip of a rag about an inch wide (depending on the weight of the cloth) and a little longer than the circumference of the can.

I twist this rag and push it into the groove in the top of the can. This prevents the paint from collecting there.

When I have finished painting it is then a simple matter to pull out the twisted rag "strip" and you have a nice clean groove and the lid fits perfectly, with no paint splashes, when it is pounded into place.

I then store any remaining paint in the can upside-down and when used again the paint mixes easily with no "skin" on top.

couldn't do any of these things yourself?

"Homemaker"

Let's leave it to our readers! Anyone have an answer? Write to Heloise c-o this paper. We would like to hear both sides of this story.

Letters do NOT have to be signed to appear in this column. Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I make powdered sugar frosting, instead of using milk or any other liquid, I use real hot strong coffee. It gives the icing a fudge taste and it's not at all like the usual powdered sugar icing.

Srs. E. A.

Dear Heloise:

My husband laid a magazine on top of my hardwood coffee table and there was some moisture under it. It stuck. What can I do? I'm afraid to try sandpaper, and my fingernail and the kitchen knife won't take it off.

Housewife

Dear Homemaker:

Never use sandpaper or a kitchen knife to remove this type of stuck paper.

Take some salad oil (from your kitchen cabinet) and saturate a piece of cotton with the oil. Lay the cotton on top of the stuck paper. Leave it 24 hours.

The next day wipe it with a soft cloth. May take more than one application.

Lots of people who do not keep salad oil in their homes use mayonnaise! — and, yes, it works. I do not recommend mayonnaise for some types of wood, but it works on most of them. Just dip up a spoonful of mayonnaise and smear it on the stuck paper. When the paper gets oily use a cloth and wipe it off. Repeat if necessary.

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

In regard to old out-dated neckties, here's what I do with them.

Anyone who can sew, can rip the ties open, lay them side by side and stitch them together. They make a novel and fascinating skirt for ballet dancers, ice skaters, roller skaters, etc.

The brighter the ties, the prettier the skirt will be.

Dorothy Louis

Dear Heloise:

For almost three years I tried in vain to get radiators in our home clean by using a radiator brush. One day I tried blowing the dirt out with the exhaust end of my vacuum cleaner. Never again will I struggle with a brush which doesn't reach where it should anyhow.

Blow the dirt from your radiator first, then clean your floor and do the dusting.

Check Shows Salt Wastes In Ouachita

A spot-check inspection of the Ouachita River between Monroe and Sterling by officials of the State Board of Health and Ouachita Parish revealed several points at which salt wastes are being dumped into the river, according to spokesmen for the group.

The information picked up by the officials was turned over to the Louisiana Stream Control Commission for necessary action in alleviating the problem, according to Vernon Parker, regional engineer with the Louisiana State Board of Health.

"I have never been convinced that all our salt has been coming from Arkansas," W. L. Elerbe, superintendent of the Monroe Water plant said, referring to the five-year campaign to clean up the river and eliminate the practice by gas well operators of emptying the salt wastes from their wells into the river. Most of the blame was originally placed on Arkansas.

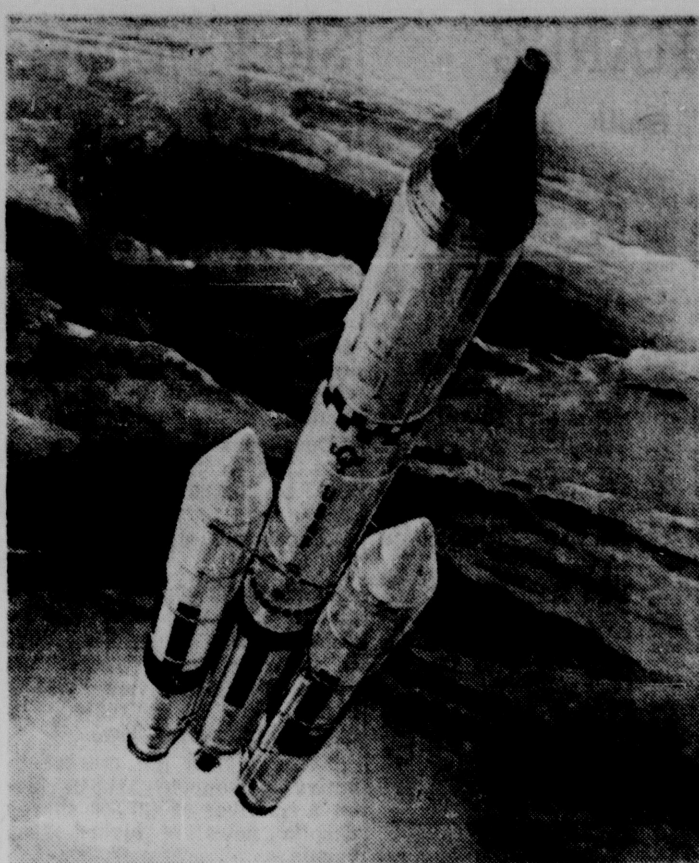

The pollution survey party which went up the river to the Sterling locks and dams in the state Board of Health, the Monroe Utilities Commission, the Monroe Water treatment plant, the city fire department and the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

According to a statement released by the group, a total of 16 samples were taken at various points along the river and at possible sources of pollution. Par said the average chloride (salt) content of the river was found to be "190 parts per million whereas several sources were found to have a much higher chloride content. One had 560 parts per million with a very heavy flow and another had well over 2,000 PPM," Parker said. He added that this indicates all of the salt in the Ouachita River is not coming down from Arkansas and that a "considerable contribution to the salt content is made by Louisiana."

Elerbe pointed out that some of the river water is now being used in the city's drinking water and said "possibly more will have to be used later on." Monroe draws 25 per cent of its drinking water from the River with 75 per cent coming from Bayou de L'Ange. He said the main objection to Monroe's water is the taste, which is a result of the salt in the water.

FORMAL PROTEST

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Italy has filed a formal protest with the European Common Market against the future sale in Italy of Soviet cars to be assembled in a jointly owned Soviet-Belgian plant in Senefle, Belgium.

Mother Kills Self, Children In Bedroom

WHEATON, Md. (AP) — A 53-year-old mother who was described as bitterly opposed to the recent marriage of her teenage daughter shot and killed to her three children Friday and then took her own life, police reported.

Detective Capt. Fred P. Thraikill said Elizabeth Takagi, American wife of a Japanese physician, shot her 13-year-old twins, Diane Lee and Dan Graham McIntyre, in their bedroom.

Then she went 10 blocks to the home of her older daughter, Gloria McIntyre Howard, 17, and killed her before turning the gun on herself.

The tragedy was discovered by Gloria's father-in-law, Robert T. Howard, a Washington, D. C., city fireman. Gloria's husband, Robert T. Howard Jr., 16, was in his 10th-grade classes in Wheaton High School.

The teen-age couple was married last October and took up housekeeping in the Howard home.

Neighbors said Mrs. Takagi, a native of Salt Lake City, Utah, was extremely upset by the marriage. Police said no notes were found.

Mrs. Takagi's maiden name was Elizabeth Steven and she formerly was married to a man named McIntyre who was believed to be still living in Salt Lake City.

Her second husband, Dr. Yuasuki Takagi, 32, was at his office in the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda when the shootings occurred. He is serving a pediatric internship at the institutes.

'Rags Flier' Free From Jail

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Webster Stover, 61, former Arnold College President, was released from Westchester County Penitentiary on Friday after serving 28 days for defying a Rye city ordinance against flying rags on his front lawn.

Stover had been sentenced to 30 days for using the front lawn washline device to attract attention to what he claimed were unjust tax assessments on his property.

He said he would sue the city of Rye for false arrest.

Shots Are Fired Into Warehouse Here By Vandals

A reported case of vandalism is under investigation by the Monroe police department, according to Chief James C. Kelly Jr.

M. L. Causey of Morgan and Lindsey told police that sometime during the past week vandals shot several times into the warehouse at 4600 Central Ave. in Selman Field.

Investigating officers said that a small caliber bullet, apparently from a .22 rifle, had been used in the incident. Two bullet holes were found in an 18-inch floodlight, two in the building and one in the front door. No estimate of the damage was available Friday.

Two 16-year old juveniles of Jackson, Miss., attempted to cash a worthless check at the Admiral Benbow Motel Friday, police said. The boys, reported as runaways, were apprehended by officers and turned over to the mother of one of the youths.

Monroe police booked Will Miles, 67, Negro, 3207 Polk St., on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving. Miles was picked up at 2:35 p. m. Friday at 1800 Jackson St.

Three Twin Cities men were apprehended by Monroe and West Monroe police Friday night on a warrant issued in West Carroll Parish.

Booked at the Monroe police department on charges of felony theft were Farnell A. Stockstill, 45, 502 Bres Ave., Monroe; Jack Davis, 33, 203 Dixie St., Monroe; and George Bostick, 30, 408 Travis St., West Monroe.

The trio was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail where they are being held for the West Carroll Parish sheriff's department.

Abe Brown, 39, Negro, 808 McGee St., Monroe, was booked by Monroe police Friday night on charges of aggravated assault.

Booked by Monroe authorities on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving was Buddy Ashley, 43, Negro, 3101 Church St., Monroe. He was apprehended at 6:25 p. m. at Orleans street and Oliver Road.

Rails Dispute Seems Headed For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union attorney told the U. S. Court of Appeals on Friday that the lengthy dispute over railroad jobs and work rules "seems to be headed back to the Congress."

Attorney Max Malin made the comment in asking the three-judge court to throw out the ruling of an arbitration board created by Congress. The arbitration ruling eventually would wipe out many thousands of railroad jobs.

The court took under advisement the appeal of four rail unions from a lower court ruling that upheld the arbitration award in the more than four-year-old dispute.

$60-MILLION CENTER

Boston Gets Okay For NASA Research

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Space Administrator James E. Webb told Congress Friday that the Greater Boston area was the best location for the $60 million electronics research center that will help put Americans on the moon.

The Boston selection was recommended to the House and Senate space committees by Webb after a blue-ribbon, five-member space agency committee carefully examined nine areas in the nation.

Some fifty areas had sought the nation's newest facility, but the committee narrowed down the possibilities to these nine: Ann Arbor-Detroit, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Princeton, N.J., and St. Louis.

"It is our carefully considered opinion that to meet the specific requirements of the NASA program in respect to time and in respect to existing resources, the center should be located in the Greater Boston area," Webb said.

No specific location was recommended to the committees, which have 45 days to veto the proposal. That was considered highly unlikely.

Webb said studies have been made with an aim to locating the huge facility, which will employ some 5,000 persons, near the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University. But Webb said that all possible specific locations will be examined.

The recommendation immediately touched off as big a congressional uproar as that last year when Republicans charged the late President John F. Kennedy was making the center a political plum for his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I'll be contacting members of Congress and reviewing this whole matter," said Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, who was backing a bid by the University of Iowa for the center.

Schwengel earlier had written Webb that some persons believe NASA merely "went through the motions" of considering bids from other areas and intended from the outset to recommend that the research center go to Boston.

The late President Kennedy's last budget specifically mentioned Boston. Republicans immediately recalled that Edward Kennedy campaigned on a promise to "do more" for Massachusetts if elected to the Senate.

NASA said Boston had been selected even before the November, 1962, election when Kennedy ran for the Senate. Congress was not satisfied. It ordered NASA to restudy the whole proposal and report by Feb. 1 of this year.

Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., who was one of the leading objectors last year when NASA sought funds for the center before it was authorized by Congress, said Friday he had wanted to see the center located in his hometown of St. Paul.

"The most statesmanlike question," he said, "continues to persist—Do we really need it?"

The center will employ about 5,000 persons, including about 2,000 scientists and technicians who will conduct basic electronics research in space problems. NASA said Boston originally was picked because of the area's heavy concentration of electronics industries and educational facilities.

The space committees have 45 days in which to veto the NASA site selection if they wish.

Congress authorized $3.9 million toward the center last year but said no funds could be spent until NASA justified the need and location for the center. Another $1.1 million was made available for advanced planning.

"NASA apparently has made every effort to justify its previous positions," Karth said.

Bastrop Credit Union Elects At Annual Meeting

BASTROP (Special) — The Kraftman's Credit Union held their annual meeting Friday night and elected board and credit committee members to serve for the next two years.

The members also heard officials report on the financial standing of the union with the supervisory chairman, Charles Jacobs Jr., stating that four separate audits in 1963 showed 100 per cent verification on all accounts.

R. D. Woodson, credit union chairman, stated that 3,187 loans were approved in 1963 totaling over $3,000,000. This was a 49 per cent increase over 1962.

Treasurer Mort Leavy presented a 1964 budget with an estimated income of $170,400 with an expected net gain of $100,000. Records for 1963 show net earnings of $75,165.

Board members elected to two year terms were, O. C. Nolan, M. P. Levy, O. W. Rieley, James Rider and Ed Head. Elected to serve one year was R. W. Woodson.

Credit committee members elected for two years were Quinton Kyle, Stan Russell and Bobby Reppon. H. B. Gunner was elected to serve one year.

SALES VOLUME UP

CHICAGO (UPI)—Department store sales rose 20 per cent above a year ago in its district for the week ended Jan. 25, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said Friday.

Sales have been rising in the bank's Seventh District for eight consecutive weeks, pulling the year to date figure 12 per cent above last year. The bank reported that sales in the same week last year were below the 1962 level due to severe storms in some areas.

Nationally, volume rose 17 per cent with year to date sales 8 per cent higher.

WE LOVE OUR CUSTOMERS

So we'd like to suggest to the very few of them who carried off our car trays to please return them — the new car license tag numbers are easy to note and remember — we'd hate to have to use the ones we've noted. If you really need a car tray for your personal use we'd be happy to sell you one at just what they cost us $1.50 ea. That way we'll both feel a lot better about the whole thing.

(We have lost at present $190.00 worth of trays.)

Yes, we love our customers for their loving and buying our superior, better-tastier, all meat Hamburgers and we want you to know we certainly want your business and greatly appreciate it.

Pace Is Buried At Natchez; No Word On Slayer

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special)—Sebastian Suttles Pace was buried here Friday, and Sheriff Odell Anders said he had no further information to release as yet in the shotgun slaying case.

Pace, 44, was killed at his home on the Pine Ridge Road here Wednesday night by a blast from a double-barrel shotgun.

As funeral services for Pace were held, investigation into the shooting continued.

Sheriff Anders has promised that he will release a statement on the shooting. The statement had been expected Friday.

Meanwhile, Pace's stepson, 16-year-old Duvall Henderson Jr., and Pace's wife, remained hospitalized at Jeff Davis Memorial Hospital. Authorities said they were hospitalized shortly after the shooting, suffering from shock.

A coroner's jury, empaneled Thursday, issued a report saying that Pace died at the hands of a "person or persons unknown."

Alderman Now Mayor Pro-Tem In West Monroe

West Monroe alderman Earl Duncan, mayor pro-tem in the absence of Mayor J. Allan Norris who is recuperating from a heart attack, Friday said a decision on city management will be made when a further assessment of Norris' condition is available.

Meantime, Duncan is making "as much time as possible" to handle city job, apart from serving as alderman.

Norris suffered his attack Sunday, but a full medical opinion of his condition is not expected before next Monday. Next meeting of the city's board of aldermen is set at this time for Feb. 11, though it might be altered.

Action on city management hinges on the likely length of the mayor's convalescence.

State Business Notes December Raise Over '62

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana business rose 7.6 per cent in December, compared with a year ago, business researchers said Friday.

Researchers at Louisiana State University said in the state's general business index of key items:

Sales of petroleum manufacturing climbed 13.9 per cent, department store sales 13.8 per cent, freight carloadings 8.9 per cent, electric power consumption 5.8 per cent, crude petroleum production 5.6 per cent, and employment 1.7 per cent.

For the January-December period, 25 out of 32 lines of business reported gains in 1963.

Postal receipts showed the largest gain, up 21.1 per cent. Next was building permits, up 15.8 per cent.

Medicare Bill Program Slated

Ouachita Parish Medical Society will present a program concerning the King-Anderson medicare bill today at 6 p.m. on KNOE television.

Participating in the program will be Monroe physicians Dr. Fred Marx, Dr. F. E. McCarty and Dr. Edward G. Brown.

According to Dr. Marx, the program concerns a discussion of the legislation now pending before congress.

S. G. Stephens In Ward 10 Race For Police Jury

Sanford G. Stephens, 32-year-old Monroe executive, has announced that he will be a Republican candidate for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 10 in the March 3 general election.

Stephens is one of eight candidates — four Republicans and four Democrats — who are contesting for the four jury seats from Ward 10. In announcing his candidacy, he stated:

"I am an active Republican and am offering myself as a Republican candidate for the Police Jury from Ward 10 because of my deep conviction that the best road to sound representative government is an effective two-party system, and because of a sincere desire to serve the people of this parish. I believe that the place to begin establishment of two-party government is at the local ward level.

"Traditionally, the South has been and will continue to be the real rock of American Conservatism — the belief in the freedom and integrity of the individual citizen and unit of government. While most of our voters align themselves with the Democratic Party, out of tradition, I sincerely feel that their views on good, sound, economic government represent those principles for which the Republican Party stands.

"The two-party system which has been the traditional American way and which has been established in most states outside our borders, including such Southern states as Texas, Mississippi and Alabama, offers to the voters a very real and distinct choice of candidates, and a means of maintaining honest, conservative government.

"In order to firmly establish and continue this kind of good government, we must start at the municipal and parish level in Louisiana now — an opportunity lost can never be regained.

"I sincerely believe that my education, business experience and interest in better local government qualify me to serve on the Police Jury from Ward 10. I am a native of Ballston Spa, N. Y., and attended schools in Connecticut and Middlebury College, in Vermont. I was graduated from Yale University in 1953, after which I served in the U. S. Navy as engineering officer aboard the U. S. S. Haas, a destroyer escort, for two years while the ship was stationed in New Orleans.

"I married the former Doris Ann Guillot, of New Orleans, whose family have been lifelong residents of Louisiana, in 1954 and have lived in the state ever since that time. I am presently employed by the Forest Products Operations of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, as engineering services manager of Bag Operations.

"I am a member of Grace Episcopal Church, where I serve as a Sunday School teacher. During the four years I have resided in Monroe, I have had a deep interest in local community affairs. I have been an active Republican, serving as chairman of the Young Republican Club of the Fifth District and as treasurer of the state Young Republican Federation. In addition, I am a member of the Ouachita Parish Republican Executive Committee.

"Permit me to remind the voters of Ward 10 that there are a total of eight candidates for the Police Jury from their ward — four Republicans and four Democrats — and that, regardless of party affiliation, they can vote for any four of them. For example, a registered Democrat is perfectly free to vote for four Republicans, or for two Republicans and two Democrats. I earnestly solicit your vote and support for my candidacy, and for better government in Ouachita Parish."

3rd Meningitis Case Reported For Fort Polk

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—A 19-year-old private has become the third soldier to be admitted to the base hospital with confirmed meningitis since last Friday.

The army said Friday Pvt. Coleman Jones of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was hospitalized Wednesday night. His condition is listed as serious.

The other meningitis patients — Pvs. John Turner of Baton Rouge and David A. O'Sullivan of Arlington, Mass. — are expected to be released from the hospital soon.

Sen. Goldwater Sees Nixon As Strong Opponent

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater brought his Republican residential campaign to St. Louis on Friday, attacking the Johnson administration and announcing that "Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is my strongest opponent."

The Arizona said he did not plan to enter the West Virginia primary, but declined to elaborate. Deadline for filing there is midnight tonight.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York announced earlier Friday that he would enter the West Virginia presidential preference primary.

Goldwater made a 10-minute talk at St. Louis' Lambert Field and then flew to Kansas City for a political speech.

"I think it is impossible to continue the war in Viet Nam without we have political liaison with the South Viet Nam government. We apparently haven't had it," he said.

Goldwater blamed the administration for "treating our friends like enemies and our enemies like friends. He said he couldn't blame French President Charles de Gaulle for recognizing Red China.

"One of our major friends recognized one of our major enemies because of our foreign policy," he said. "If our friends can't look to the strongest nation in the world for help, what can they do?"

Of his presidential candidacy, Goldwater said: "I think Nixon is my strongest opponent. The New Hampshire write-in will give some indication of his political future."

Airplane Crash In Mississippi Still Unsolved

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP)—The cause of the December crash of a Air Force plane that killed its crew of nine remained a mystery Friday.

An investigation board, that had probed the Dec. 23 crash for weeks reported it hasn't been able to find out what happened to the B-52 aircraft.

The plane plummeted earthward about two minutes after takeoff. It crashed some five miles northwest of the Columbus Air Force Base where it started.

In a release, the Air base said, "an investigation conducted by a board of highly qualified officers with the assistance of various systems specialists could not establish a definite cause for the accident."

Phases of the investigation are continuing, the Air Force said.

Heart Attack Not Cause Of Actor's Death

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Alan Ladd did not die of a heart attack, but the cause of death will have to be determined by laboratory tests, a deputy coroner said Friday.

The 50-year-old film star was found dead in bed Wednesday at his Palm Springs home.

"An autopsy was completed," Robert L. Drake said, "but there were not enough of the gross findings to give us the cause of death."

"Therefore we will have to run laboratory tests—chemical tests and microscopic examinations—which may mean that we won't have an answer until Monday."

DESPITE DENIALS

Reds, Castroites Stirred Panama

EDITOR'S NOTE: A key question in the Jan. 16-17 rioting in Panama was whether Communists and Castroites were involved. U.S. Army Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said at least 10 Cuba-trained Communists had been arrested by the Panama National Guard. Panama ridiculed the charge. In the following exclusive dispatch UPI Latin American news editor Francis L. McCarthy discloses details of the rioting, documented by photographs.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Communists and Fidelistas (Castroites) helped organize and develop the anti-American riots in Panama in which at least 21 persons were killed and several hundred injured, authoritative sources told UPI here Friday.

The sources supplied photographs and identifications of participants. They included about 70 known Communists and fellow-travelers, some 40 of whom were armed and played leading roles.

Most were said to have been recent visitors to Cuba, Communist China or the Soviet Union.

Despite Panamanian denials, the sources said Panama authorities arrested some of the better known radicals on American complaints but released them quickly because of their student status and government fears of adverse public reaction in Panama.

The sources said a flag-raising incident at the Balboa High School in the Canal Zone for which American students were responsible gave the Communists and Castroites the incident they long had sought to provoke violence.

Their subsequent actions responded to appeals from Havana for riots and disorders throughout Latin America to divert world opinion from formal Venezuelan charges of Communist Cuban aggression filed with the Organization of American States (OAS). The Castro appeals for violence in a bid to blunt the Venezuelan charge was intercepted in Caracas and form part of the Venezuelan case against Cuba.

UPI's sources traced organized agitation in the days immediately preceding and following the zone flag-raising incident as follows:

On Jan. 9, Communist speakers interrupted a student rally at the National Institute in Panama City to announce a march on the Balboa High School. The Communist orators were identified as Floyd Britton, Carlos Nunez and a woman, Virginia Ramirez.

They called for violence to follow the march.

Britton, 26, has been registered as a Communist since 1960. He instigated demonstrations against the U.S. Embassy in Panama City in 1955, participated in the Cuban-sponsored guerrilla activity in the Panamanian interior in 1959, and in student riots against the Panama Canal.

He was a Fidel Castro guest in Cuba in 1961 and 1962.

On Jan. 10, following a night of rioting, Communist leaders appeared at the National Institute to distribute arms to demonstrators. Identified in this activity, and their names reported to the Panama National Guard, were Cleto Souza, Ruben Dario Souza, Jorge Turner and Cesar Carrasquilla.

Dario Souza was arrested in Panama in 1953 while with a Russian who was carrying information about active Communists and Communist sympathizers in Panama. Turner has been a Communist Party member since 1945. Carrasquilla was identified as a Communist cell leader in the science faculty of the University of Panama.

These men were heard urging the crowd to "kill Americans" and keep up the disorders "until all Americans have left Panama."

Later in the same day, Thelma King, a deputy in the National Assembly and close friend of Castro personally led a mob of about 1,000 persons to national headquarters to demand weapons to "fight Americans."

At the same time, Radio Tribuna, of which she is part owner, broadcast appeals for mob violence against Americans and U.S. properties.

Miss King has been a frequent visitor to Havana. Her most recent visit to Cuba was last September.

A subsequent meeting at Panama University, which led to further violence, was organized by Victor Avila, 24. He was described as a Communist student leader since 1960 a former secretary general of the Panamanian Students Federation.

Like Britton, Avila was trained in mob tactics in Cuba. After this meeting, Britton was observed leading the demonstrations along the zone border.

Other Panamanian Communists linked to active roles in four days of anti-American sniping, rioting, looting and burning were said to include David Turner, Samuel Gutierrez and Alvaro Mendez Franco. Turner, a Communist Party member since 1946, has been particularly active in recent months among student groups. Gutierrez is a Communist Party aide in Mexico. Mendez Franco is a close associate of Miss King.

All of these men were photographed provoking violence.

One Communist leader was seen and identified in a group of snipers firing into the Canal Zone Jan. 11 from the Johnny Waler Building in Cristobal, on the Atlantic side of Panama.

Andres Galvan Lorenzo, a leader of the Communist National Action vanguard, was seen during Colon rioting fighting with several other members of his party. They were among those subversives arrested by Panamanian Guardsmen on American complaint and later released. The Guard, however, said officially it "knew nothing" of such arrests.

Galvan Lorenzo trained in Communist mob tactics for six months in Cuba in 1962.

Other known Communists identified in photographs by the sources included Alberto Calvo, 25, and Eligio Salas law school cell leaders and Augusto Arosemena, 23, who visited Cuba in 1960, an active Communist and former student federation secretary general.
